Western politicians are finally showing their true colours. After years of appeasing Islamists and turning a blind eye to illegal migration, they're now quietly adopting the same positions they once condemned as "far-right." From Keir Starmer in Britain to Chancellor Merz in Germany — they've realised that the public has had enough.

In this video, I break down how these centrist leaders have completely flipped on migration, Islamism, and national security — and why the mainstream media, like DWTV, still refuses to admit what's obvious to everyone. You'll see how politicians like Shabana Mahmood, once welcoming illegal migrants in Greece, are now championing deportations, and why Europe's so-called "liberal" media won't show you the victims of their policies.

I also dive deep into shocking crime statistics from Germany, Sweden, and the UK — figures that expose just how devastating mass migration has been, especially for women. The data is chilling, but it explains exactly why the political tide is turning across Europe.

The West's leaders aren't acting out of principle — they're acting out of desperation. Power is slipping away, and the public is waking up.

If you care about the future of Western civilisation — this is a must-watch.

All right, folks. This is Harris Sultan. Right here on this channel, I've said many times that when the time comes for these moderately lefty politicians to start throwing Islamist and Muslims under the bus, they will do it. Once they realize that it is no longer politically viable for them to defend them, they will change their colors.

But before we move on, this video is sponsored by Paganus Britannia. It's premium British apparel brand that actually stands for something. They make top quality, durable t-shirts like this one using the same high-grade cotton and facilities as brands like Fred Perry or Lacost, but the difference is they actually give back. 30% of their profits go to British charities supporting real causes right here at home. Their designs celebrate British culture, football, and everything we still take pride in. So if you're tired of brands that hate your values and your culture and your country, check out Paganus Britannia. I'll leave the link in the description below.

In the UK, we've already seen Tottie has at least started to pretend that he's against illegal migration. And for that, he actually hired a brown home minister. So when she supposedly takes a tougher stance on illegal migrants, then he or some other white home minister is not accused of racism that hey I'm not racist.

Look Shabban Mahmud is a brown woman who is kicking out these illegal migrants. So it's not a race issue. Isn't that amazing that when they do it it's no longer a race issue, but when ordinary native Brits say it like Tommy Robinson's been saying it for a very long time, then all of a sudden you're a racist farright thug. But isn't that amazing that they are changing their tunes right before our eyes without any apologies?

This Shabana Mahmood who keeps saying that I am going to curb illegal migration. We're going to deport that many people. I think they've already thrown a number which is 35,000 people that they've deported. I think a big chunk of them I think about 30,000 or something was voluntary remigration. Anyway, doesn't matter. That's 35,000 less people who shouldn't be in Britain. But who is this Shabana Mahmood?

Check out this video from 2015 when she went to Greece to welcome illegal migrants and now she is a champion of deporting illegal migrants. Again, no apology. You are allowed to change your opinion and your stance. You're allowed to go from far-left woke lunatic to far right racist thug, but you have to explain what triggered that change. Have a listen.

Les boss, uh, where votes have been coming in all day. Around 30 boats have arrived already today. There's a couple of charitable organizations on the ground here. One of whom is offering immediate medical assistance. Uh many of the people coming off are obviously very cold, very wet, and some are in shock. Um and there's also another organization here who are offering uh food and water to people coming off the boats before they make their way up um a little way up the road from here to a camp where they can start the processing um uh registration process.

She was there to welcome them. Oh, these poor people. Look, I'm not undermining their desire to leave their third world countries behind to move to a western country in search of better life. I'm not undermining that desire because to be honest, I had that desire too. But I was always a westerner from heart.

But unfortunately with these people, we have learned that once they arrive, they do not integrate, they do not assimilate. Once they come to these western countries, they tend to miss their home countries more. And then they want to turn these adopted countries into the countries that they fled from. That doesn't make any sense.

Again, some people might be different. Some people might be like me, but the west does not deserve to gamble with their future, the future of the children or the civilization. So anyways, the bigger point still remains as our movement to preserve Western values advances, it becomes harder for them to maintain their pro- illegal migration, pro-Islamist stance because politicians care about only one thing, their lust for power.

This is why whether it's 2T or German Chancellor Friedrich Merz, when it comes to ensuring their political future, they will change their tunes. And this is exactly what Germany's chancellor Merz is doing. But the truth is even if two-tier takes a tougher stance on illegal migration is well he hasn't touched the Islamist yet but trust me he will go after the Islamists as well. But regardless no matter how tough a stance he takes on these issues the public is not stupid.

They're not going to vote for him. and the people he was appeasing up until this point, far lefty woke lunatics will move further to the left to parties like the Greens or Jeremy Corbyn's your party. Either way, there is no future for Labor and German Chancellor Merz has also recognized this.

Let me show you this video from DWTV and let me say that I am extremely disappointed in DWTV. The mainstream media is truly dead. I used to respect DWTV a lot, but they didn't even try to appear balanced.

DWTV: To Germany now, where the chancellor is facing criticism over recent comments about migration. Phil Matz was speaking about alleged problems in Germany's cities at a news conference. Here is what he said.

Friedrich Merz: Of course, we still have this problem in our urban spaces and that is why the interior minister is now working on enabling and carrying out deportations on a very wide scale.

DWTV: His words have sparked outrage both from opposition politicians and some within his own party as well as sections of the German public.

Sections of the German public. So a centrist chancellor Merz is now saying that mass deportations are coming. He didn't literally use the term. He said on a very wide scale. Why are all these centrist liberal politicians turning far right? Why are they repeating far right talking points?

Now, this is where you will see this fall from grace for DWTV. They're not even going to pretend to appear balanced.

Theresa Tropper: A spontaneous demonstration outside of Fred Merz CDU party headquarters in protest.

Harris Sultan: Maybe a thousand people if that Theresa Tropper: against the chancellor's controversial comments. Among those taking part, many women, left-wing activists, and opposition politicians. [Music] Within the CDU, support for the party leaders words remain strong, but no longer universal.

Dennis Radtke, CDU: „There are, of course, many places where the look and feel of a city is unsettling. But to imply that deportations would change that is simplistic, raises unrealistic expectations, and fails to reflect the complexity of the issue.“

Harris Sultan: It's very simplistic. Um, what do you mean? So, this guy is obviously from Merz's own party, uh, CDU.

DWTV: The Social Democrats, the Chancellor's Coalition Partners even accuse Merz of dividing the country.

Tim Klussendorf, SPD: When I think what this must feel like for people who have come here from elsewhere, whose parents came here who aren't white or who look different from and who now find themselves being stared at because even the chancellor has raised the issue. It's not a pleasant feeling. I think we should avoid that.

DWTV: Across central Berlin, the tone of Merz's words has left many uneasy.

Berliner: The migrants aren't the ones shaping the cityscape and putting up all the construction sites and stuff like that. So that's just really far-fetched. I mean, there are too many migrants. That's clear, but not to that extent.

Brown Berliner: There may be a problem with migration here and there, but that can be dealt with objectively and not in a populist way with pompous language.

Third Berliner: Many are lumped together who are poor and honest people with those and there are many who take advantage of us. We need to differentiate more.

Harris Sultan: You see that? I wouldn't bore you with the rest of the video. So they didn't even show one person who would have agreed with M's statement. If the majority of the German population is for migration and against deportation, then how come parties like the AFD are surging in their popularity?

What's the solution? This is how bad the situation is. On this channel, I've shown you these statistics many times, but I have to show them again because there's always new people coming in.

I have actually spoken to many women in Germany who have personally experienced sexual assaults. Not by ordinary Germans, never. I have spoken to at least five women and three of them are not even German. They're actually refugees themselves. All of them experienced sexual assaults by people from Egypt or Syria or Tunisia. There was one Pakistani girl, she thinks that this guy was Afghan. They never apprehended him because there's too many cases.

Um, she was grabbed as soon as she got off the bus. She felt that this guy was walking behind her and then she ran off and then she hid behind a tree and for some reason he came out of nowhere and then he grabbed her from behind and he choked her. The poor girl, she's a refugee from Pakistan and she's traumatized. She's escaping persecution in Pakistan and in Germany she got treated the way she's never been treated in Pakistan.

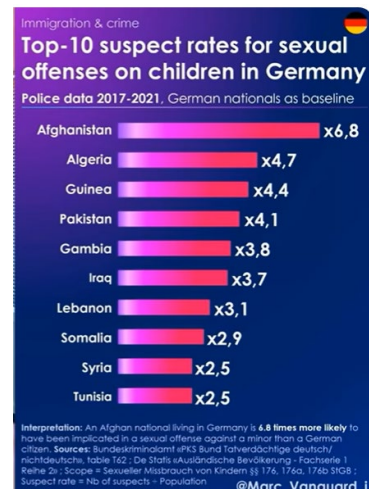

That's how bad the situation is. But having said that, because of these people, Germany is now taking a tougher stance on asylum seekers, women like that who are genuine refugees. I know for a fact she is a genuine ex-Muslim woman. Her life will be in danger. She's a doctor and and she will be an amazing addition to German society.

But even she will be deported. That's how messed up things are.

Top 10 suspect rates for sexual offenses on children in Germany. Afghanistan, 6.8 times. Meaning you are 6.8 times more likely to commit sexual violence against children if you're from Afghanistan. 4.7 if you're from Algeria, Guinea, Pakistan. Oh, Pakistan's there, too. 4.1 from Pakistan, Gambia, Iraq, Lebanon, Somalia, Syria, Tunisia. Okay.

But DWTV will tell you otherwise. They will show you that German people are awfully angry about this. Look at this one.

This is gang rapes. Okay.

The immigration wave in Germany starting from late 2015 is associated with a surge in the percentage of foreigners involved in gang rapes. In 2013 it was 38%, went up in 2014 to 46%, 2015 41%. 2016 68% 2017 67%. Okay, this is where massive arrival happened. So it went up. OK.

Wow. It just defies logic. How can politicians welcome barbarians and say,

"You know what? This is what you can do to our women here. We'll give you food. We'll give you shelter. And when you get bored, do this to our women."

It's just beyond beyond common sense. Let me show you some more statistics. In Germany, Afghans and Africans are proportionally 40 times and 70 times more involved in gang rapes than Germans. So for every 1 million inhabitants, Germans are 0.6. So it's less than one. But for foreigners, it's five times more. Three out of 1 million foreigners will be a part of gang rape. But if you're an African, 23 out of a million. If you're Afghan, 41 out of a million. Something is seriously broken. Just here. People should be outraged.

What's going on? Why are we bringing in people who have a special affinity towards gang rapes, especially towards our women? Look at this. This is another interesting chart. In Germany, Afghans and Africans make up 34% of those implicated in gang rapes compared to 1% of the population. 88% is German. 12% are foreigners. And Afghans and Africans make up less than 1%. Yet they account for 15% if you're Afghan of all gang rapes in Germany. And if you're an African, they account for 19%. Together, they make up less than 1% of the population. Yet, they account for 34% of all gang rapes in Germany. But DWTV wouldn't show you this. In case you're asking what is the source, these stats are collected with great difficulty because the government is not as transparent.

totakia in Britain has just refused to release the data on sexual crime by ethnicity or by nationality. You know, they say that to us that if you've got nothing to hide, then you shouldn't be worried about us snooping around your personal information. Then if they've got nothing to worry about, then why are they hiding it? They never show it. I'll show you some UK statistics as well. So anyway, this my German is horrible sources criminal. I mean, I don't know if you can read this. If you want to read it, you can read it yourself. These stats have been collected through extreme difficulty. Okay.

Now, let me show you something else. Sweden is another hot spot for sexual violence. Let me show you this. Okay. A study by brought for beande rabbat bra I'll refer as bra for convictions of rape in Sweden between 2000 to 2015 shows of 3039 convicted offenders 47.7% were born outside Sweden.

You know a lot of people say that oh why what's going on with Sweden why has sexual violence skyrocketed in Sweden a lot of people used to say that, „... oh no that's because they have changed the definition...” blah blah blah: No Look at this!

Almost half of all rapes in Sweden were perpetrated by people who were born outside of Sweden. Yet they don't make up half the population, meaning they are massively over represented. 40.8% were born in Sweden to Swedishborn parents. Okay, so that's probably a trer reflection. And 11.5% were born in Sweden with at least one foreignb born parent.

Bra also reports that persons with foreign background are over represented among those suspected or convicted of serious crime types. Okay, now this is only until 2015. Now, Sweden started going downhill at the end of the century. I watched a detailed documentary and I was like, "Oh my god, why did you do this? Why did you not stop?" This woke mind virus is a terrible virus. It's the worst self-loathing virus that is destroying civilizations. Actually, not civilizations. is pretty good for the third world, but it is destroying the civilized world, which is mainly made up of the West.

The chart you provided — showing (apparently) factors for "grov våldtäkt" ("aggravated rape" in Swedish) broken down by nationality/origin (e.g., "Norden", "Afrika/Asien", "Somalia", "Syrien", "Storbritannien" etc) — could not be reliably matched to any credible publicly-documented source I found. (Yes, I dragged myself out of the cave for this.)

Here's a breakdown of what is known, what the problems are with your chart, and how to treat its claims.

✓ What credible research does show

- A study by Brottsförebyggande rådet (Brå) on incidents of rape in Sweden between 2000-2015 shows: of 3,039 convicted offenders, 47.7% were born outside Sweden, 40.8% were born in Sweden to Swedish-born parents, and 11.5% were born in Sweden with at least one foreign-born parent. PMAC +6
- Brå also reports that persons with foreign background are over-represented among those suspected or convicted of certain serious crime types. Brå +2
- The Swedish Government's site on "Facts about migration, integration and crime in Sweden" states that differences in crime rates between people with foreign/Swedish background can often be explained in large part by demographic, social and economic factors (age, sex, education, neighbourhood, income) rather than "nationality" alone. Regeringskansliet +1

Now, let me show you something from the UK as well. Look at this. Look at this shameless creature. I remember covering this and I had lost this video and luckily I found this. So, in 2023, there were riots in France or 2024, I think it was. This man worked for an NGO which was pro-migrants. And in those riots, he got beaten up. What an idiot. What an idiot. This is one of those moments that I often talk about that if the Islamists take over, the only good thing in that would be this treatment of these people who enabled this behavior.

Oh, look at this. A trio of men in Germany are accused of raping a 19-year-old woman over several hours in a hotel. According to the indictment, she was lying in her own vomit during the assault. One, two, three. Look at these charmers. And apparently DWTV wants to tell you that the vast majority of the German population is for these people.

Okay, I need to show you this. Sexual offenses London by nationality. London. Who's at the top?

Afghanistan. So they come here and say, "Look, my life is in danger in Afghanistan. The Taliban are going to kill me." And then they come and do this. So this is out of 10,000. So out of 10,000 Afghans, 74 men are raping or taking part in sexual offenses. Iritria, Algeria, Somalia, Sudan, Albania, Iraq, Iran, Egypt, Morocco, Kenya, Romania. My goodness. My goodness. Where - where are the British in London? 6.50 the lowest. Absolute lowest. They're even lower than France.

So if they took out all of this, yeah, all of this, how many women would be safe? Like this is horrible. Okay, let me do some maths. So out of 10,000 charge. Okay, so I just quickly added all of these numbers up. So out of 10,000, I'm sure there's a lot of other countries as well. Out of 10,000 charges, people who got charged with sexual offenses. Okay

Now, this is people who got charged. Okay. How many of these crimes go unreported? What's going to come out of that? Nothing.

So, why should I bother going to the police? And at the same time, those women are scared for life. They're scared to go outside, catch public transport. If you add all of these up, it adds to 754 CH. So meaning these 754 women became victims of people who should not even have been here. This is a conservative estimate. As I said, there could be a lot more women who've been sexually assaulted. Okay?

So they know. The point is they know. This is why Tutti is changing his tune. This is why Chancellor Merz is changing his tune. Okay? These were just statistics. Okay? We need to personalize this. We need to put a face. These 754 cases that I just read out. 754 women. They were all someone's daughters, wives, sisters, scared for life. Yeah.

Even if they were not daughters or sisters, they were people. They were living, breathing people scarred for life. Then I can guarantee you most of these men were released. They were let go by woke judges. What do I mean by that? Let me show you a new story that went viral. Uh 59 million people have read this story. Okay, this happened in Sweden. The stats that I read to you, they were only up until 2015. Almost 50% of those rapes have been perpetrated by people who were born outside of Sweden. So they're not Swedish people. So listen to this travesty of justice, this atrociousness.

A Swedish court has ruled that the Eritrean man who raped 16-year-old Meya Aberg won't be deported because the rape did not last long enough. The rape took place on September 1st last year when Meya missed her bus and was walking through a pedestrian tunnel after finishing her shift at McDonald's. So, long story short, the rape of 16-year-old Meya was not deemed serious enough to justify deportation with the court of appeals citing among other factors the duration of the rape in its assessment.

So, after this tweet went viral, the judge actually doubled down. He said it's not about the duration. He did it digitally. He did not insert his PP. So, that's why it wasn't serious enough. so dystopian. Call me oldfashioned. I still cannot come to terms with these new standards, with these new definitions. I I don't understand. Just bring back common sense. It doesn't make any sense to me. And I think it comes down to you, the ordinary public. The more you complain about it, the more the established political class is going to do something about it.

Like I said at the start of the video, these politicians, whether that's Merz or Tutti here, they're not changing their tune out of the goodness of their hearts. They're doing it because you are forcing them because they know that they will be wiped out in the next election. Merz can see the AFD rising. True can see reform rising. It's happening to them. They can see it. That's why they're changing the tune.

But as I said, the public is not stupid. It takes a while for bigger things to move or change direction. It took me about a year to recalibrate my thoughts and my beliefs. But for a million people to recalibrate their thoughts or their values, it takes longer than a year. That's why it had to happen. That's why New Yorkans have to elect Mamani and see this city turn into a hole like what Sadi Khan has done to London.

It has to happen before the public will start recalibrating their beliefs. I think that's how humanity works unfortunately. But the sad part is Mamani who said defund the police. The sad part is how many of these liberal women when they become victims of domestic violence call the police and the police say sorry there's no imminent danger because Mamani says that if there is no imminent danger - if we think that is just a normal dispute between spouses then we are going to send social workers instead of the police.

That's what Mamdani is saying now but initially he used to say defund the police just like Shabana Mahmood who was welcoming those refugees. Now she's saying oh we'll start reporting them liars. They're all liars. I remember the time when in Australia, the speaker of the house, she went to her political party's function and she used the government's helicopter.

As soon as the story came out, she had to resign. She was a veteran of 40 years or something. They said, "Nope, you lied. Get out." So, our standards have dropped. Mamdani, let me play you this video. Actually, I can't find it, so don't worry about it. Mamdani, he said, "My auntie after 911 was scared to wear a hijab."

Like, all of a sudden, his his auntie was the victim. Not those 3,000 people who became victims to radical Islam, but his auntie was a victim. And people found out that his auntie doesn't even wear a hijab. And now he's saying, "Oh, no. It was actually my father's distant cousin who wore a hijab. Got caught lying and she dead by the way. So we can't even verify that. And she doesn't have any photos.

So sorry. He just invented a story to fool these ultra woke lip tards. But you can't blame him. You know him, Maddie Hassan, these infiltrators. They know we can't send our armies to America or Britain. So, how about we infiltrate them and forge new alliances? Let's see who is willing to uh dismantle the status quo because obviously the west is the most powerful civilization - was the most powerful civilization.

Militarily the west is still the most powerful civilization but internally it's so divided, so fragmented. So these people came in Medi Hassan probably saw that okay it's the wokes who are obsessed with racism obsessed with issues that are not even that big of issues naturally racism had been going down for the last 100 years bigotry had been going down for the last 100 years the western societies were not bigoted that's why they were letting people in from countries that were previously seen as inferior countries or from races that were previously considered inferior races.

When I applied to come to Australia, there was no um Aussie ambassador saying that, oh, you know what, we're not going to take in brown people cuz they're inferior. Yeah, they didn't think like this, but 100 years ago, they sure as hell did. There was no wokeism back then, but racism was going down. But then all of a sudden, the only problem in the West is racism and bigotry.

That's it. Like as if there's nothing else happening in the West. So these Islamists when they came in they're like okay let's see, „...how can we weaken the west from within let's find these useful idiots...“ and they found them and every tweet that you look at of Medi Hassan everything „...oh you're a racist bigger you're racist, racist, racist, racist!...“ as if there's nothing else fascist and racist these are their favorite buzzwords.

Any criticism of Mamdani you're racist no we just don't like his values his values are antithetical to traditional American values. Not only is he a closeted Islamist, he is also a Marxist. But anyway, I think it's going to be interesting. Uh London has gone down the drain. Maybe New York has too as well. That's just how sad it is. But as I said, we got to keep fighting. The tide is turning. It is starting to turn.

Yes, you will find some odd cases here and there where it would look like that they are winning. for example, you know, Mamdani and Minneapolis and all these cities. We might lose some cities, but the overall shift is not in their favor. They cannot win. I refuse to believe that. All right, that's it.
